Extraordinary Care

The Need For Licensed Home Child Care Providers Has Never Been Greater.

The government of Ontario is now investing a historic $1.9 billion in early years and child care; an increase of 82 per cent since 2014 and the push is on to create more licensed spaces in the private home sector through agencies holding a license issued by the Ministry of Education.

In order to help facilitate this, the Provincial government has unveiled several new financial incentives to aid the Private Provider in joining an agency. Additionally, the rules have been tightened on providing child care privately. In 2017 the Ontario minister responsible for Early Years and Child Care stated that the province will be placing a greater degree of accountability on the Private Provider not only in the environment in which they work, the care that they provide, but also in their accountability to the Parents of the children they care for. These rules limit the number of children and increase the standards of the care to be provided. Accountability in the form of administrative penalties have been introduced to help monitor and control these new initiatives.

Wee Watch is one of the agencies that is licensed by the Ministry of Education and has been providing care to families for over 35 years. Providers that join the agency can benefit from their experience, support and working with the Wee Watch system of programming and safety.

This, combined with the financial incentives currently being provided by the City of Peterborough through the Province of Ontario, makes this change a good move, not only for you but your community as well.

Providing child care on your own can be stressful and lonely and sometimes will be costlier than anticipated. Working with a licensed agency allows you to be prepared if you need to take time off, provides you with many of the tools and resources needed to become a licensed Provider, takes the stress out of fee collection and finding liability insurance. Wee Watch Providers enjoy networking during continuing education workshops, social events, and the very popular Together Wee Can program which helps unite our homes throughout the Province.
